A fun part about our 2022 High School English Camp in Transworld University is that Albert leads a round of exciting activities on the 2nd day. Students are split into groups of four or five people, they are then asked to compete with another group to finish the tasks of six different settings. Students need to understand the instructions in English, then work together as a team to solve the questions one by one. The games required good teamwork, speed, clear minds, and other skills. We can easily see that all students are trying their very best to engage in the games with high momentum. And these activities also make a good start of our second day program.

Students all knew that we would have group presentations at the very end of our camp on the second day, thus they formed the groups and started to plan for it on the first day. In the group discussion session, they brainstormed with different ideas, combining their strengths and creativities, they put the work together piece by piece and created the outline of their presentation. Some groups even got their whole project done within an hour, but more will further develop their work afterwards in the hotel. It's a nice process of learning and students mentioned that they learned from their teammates as everyone contributed in different ways. So by working on this task, they understood the importance of teamwork once again, which they will encounter a lot in future study lives.
